Bob Grumman supports himself and his cat, Shirley, as a substitute teacher while annoying others with (1) visio-mathematical poems, (2) literary criticism specializing in poetry mainstream critics ignore, (3) a lifework-large, 172%-uncertified theory of psychology, (4) daily babble at his po-X-cetera blog, (5) furious arguments against those who believe someone other than William Shakespeare wrote the plays and poems of William Shakespeare; and (6) incredibly poor tennis in a seniors doubles league. His Runaway Spoon Press has been in operation, publishing his own work and that of dozens of similar wacks, for 20 years. His four full-size books are Shakespeare and the Rigidniks, Of Manywhere-at-Once, From Haiku To Lyriku, and a collection of mathemaku recently published by Otoliths called, April to the Power of the Quantity Pythagoras Times Now. He hopes to have a sci-fi novel, The Atlantreality Box, out before 2009, too.
